Certification programs have proliferated enormously in the past several years. Organizations and their employees are striving to sustain growth in increasingly competitive global markets. Successful and effective implementation of change employs specific skills, which are no longer the domain of a few technical professionals. Introduction of Total Quality Management (TQM), Continuous Improvement (CIP or CI) Programs, and the drive to radically redesign business processes (BPM) requires strong skills including project management and business analysis. Proficiency in these skills is a prerequisite to managing change and growth at all levels. Internationally recognized certification tracks in Project Management, Business Analysis, Six Sigma, and others provide a structured and organized way to successfully deliver value and foster collaboration. With technological advances and the increasing value of information, a multitude of paths, and in-demand certifications, are rapidly evolving.

In this interactive session, Dr. Hasnain Rizvi will provide practical insight into what factors to consider before embarking on a specific certification track, the advantages of certain certifications options, and potential career paths.

USEFUL HANDOUTS AVAILABLE - A Certifications and Career Planning matrix has been especially created for this event, and will be available, along with other handouts on in-demand skills and certifications at the meeting

About Our Speaker

Dr. Rizvi is an OPM3 Certified Consultant and has managed mission critical complex programs and projects for Global 2000 and Fortune 500 clients. He is currently the Agile Principal Coach and CIO at AAA University, as well as Managing Partner at GlocalPM, Inc. He has performed project management maturity assessment work and supported clients in establishing and redesigning project management offices (PMOs) across various sectors. He has managed complex programs in IBM's Project Management practice in Saskatchewan, has lead strategic programs and projects for The Government of Newfoundland and Labrador, and has managed project portfolios for ESRI, Inc, a leading global geospatial software solutions provider headquartered in California. He also spent several years providing technology to leading insurance carriers in the US and Canada. His specialties include planning and implementing mitigation activities to assist in recovering troubled projects.

Dr Rizvi, "Has" to his friends, has trained and mentored over 10,000 professionals across the globe, and is an Adjunct Faculty at the University of British Columbia. He is a highly sought after trainer and provides the following certification coaching: PMP, PMI-ACP, PMI-RMP, PMI-SP, Lean Six Sigma and ITIL Foundations.
