Jenna Signorelli - Senior Business Analyst | FOX

Jenna Signorelli graduated from UCLA with a B.S in Cognitive Science and minor in Film, Television, & Digital Media. She started her career as a Marketing Coordinator at UCLA's Center for Scholars & Storytellers (CSS) where she held a variety of responsibilities as the company's 3rd full-time employee, ranging from project managing an entertainment industry thought leadership summit, to co-authoring qualitative research in collaboration with the Creative Artists' Agency (CAA), to onboarding all CSS employees and volunteers to Monday.com for project planning. She then transitioned to Consulting for Qvest where she grew from Product Analyst supporting the deprecation of a legacy product for a global streaming service to Business Analyst/Product Owner at Fox supporting their digital media supply chain. While there, she also supported marketing and events for Qvest's Women in Tech group. After 18 months as a Consultant at Fox, Jenna was offered a full-time position as a Senior Business Analyst/Product Owner. Her team currently supports distribution to Video on Demand (VOD) partners, and she works directly with both engineers and business stakeholders. In her spare time, Jenna enjoys running, cycling, pickle ball, and binge-watching the latest tv dramedy.

Pravisha Singh, Technical Product Owner | KINECTA FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

Since its inception at Kinecta in 2015, Pravisha's perspective and insight into the Kinecta member experience has contributed to the success of her role as part of the Digital Banking team. She evolved from the newly minted Associate Product Specialist to a senior position of Technical Product Owner III, specializing in money movement and risk products.

In addition to growing the Digital Banking department through continuous improvements and stakeholder relationships, she has also overseen or played an integral part in various high visibility projects, such as two bill pay conversions, an organizational merger, multi-factor authentication implementation, digital banking platform conversion, and Zelle®. She continues to cultivate her skills and build trust as a Certified Scrum Product Owner by equal parts industry knowledge and interpersonal communication.
